CORAM : M. S. Sonak &

DATED : 30 June 2025

ORAL JUDGMENT:- (Per M. S. Sonak, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties.
2. Rule. The Rule is made returnable immediately at the request of and with the consent of the learned counsel for the parties.
3. This petition challenges the impugned order dated 24 February 2025, issued by the First Respondent, to the extent that it confirms the GST demand of Rs.70,57,98,2018/- for the period April 2020 – March 2021.
4. Mr. Shah, learned senior advocate for the Petitioner, at the outset submitted that the impugned order is vitiated by non-application of mind, non-consideration of detailed submissions canvassed by the Petitioner in its replies dated 27 January 2025 and 6 February 2025. He pointed out that the so-called reasoning in the impugned order is a verbatim copy of the statements in the show cause notice dated 28 November 2024 at Exhibit-S. He handed in the chart to demonstrate that the so-called reasoning and findings are nothing but an exercise of cutting and pasting statements from the show cause notice. On this ground, Mr. Shah urged that the impugned order may be quashed and set aside without relegating the Petitioner to avail up the alternate remedy.
5. Ms. Tatake and Ms. Vyas submit that the above ground is not raised in the petition. They submit that the entire reply of the Petitioner has been reproduced and considered in the impugned order. Therefore, they submit that this is not a case of non-application of mind or passing of an unreasoned order.

6. Ms. Tatake and Ms. Vyas submit that the Petitioner has already preferred an appeal against an earlier order dated 1 April 2022 denying the Petitioner the refunds claimed. Therefore, they submit that the Petitioner should have followed the same course in this matter instead of challenging the impugned order directly before this Court.

7. The rival contentions now fall for our determination.

8. With the assistance of the learned counsel for the parties, we have perused the show cause notice dated 28 November 2024 and the replies filed by the Petitioner on 27 January 2025 and 6 February 2025, and the impugned order dated 24 February 2025. On a perusal of all these, we are satisfied that the adjudicating authority has failed to independently apply its mind to the various contentions raised in the replies filed on behalf of the Petitioner. Instead, the adjudicating authority has chosen to copy or rather cut and paste verbatim the allegations in the show cause notice dated 28 November 2024 to pass them off as reasons supporting the impugned order.

9. Mr. Shah handed in a chart, which establishes the above referred “cut and paste exercise”. The comparative chart is transcribed below for the convenience of reference:-

10. In the case of Piramal Enterprises Limited vs. The State of Maharashtra & Anr. Writ Petition No.2836 of 2021 disposed of on 11 June 2024, a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court, of which one of us (Jitendra Jain, J.) was a party set aside the impugned order after finding that there was no independent application of mind but the contents of a notice issued by the Service Tax Authorities was verbatim copied/borrowed by the VAT authorities.

11. In the above regard, a reference can be made to paragraph 70 of the above decision which reads as follows:-

“70. We are also in agreement with the contention as urged on behalf of the petitioner when the petitioner urges that the impugned review order is bad in law for the reason that there is non-application of mind by the reviewing authority in passing such order on another aspect. In this regard we find that when the reviewing authority intended to confine itself to the value assigned to the intangible assets as contained in Schedule 3.3 read with Section 3.3 and Section 2.5, the same has been borrowed / copied from the service tax demand notice in ad-verbatim manner. This is clear from the comparative extracts of the service tax demand notice and the extract of the impugned order and more particularly from perusal of paragraphs 13 to 26 and 30 to 31 of the impugned order when examined against paragraph 4, 5.1 to 5.4, 6.1 and 10 of the Service Tax demand notice, where the impugned order has clearly copied and pasted the findings and reasoning as contained in the service tax demand notice issued to the petitioner in regard to BTA. In this context we may also observe that the parameters of proceedings for levy of service tax, as it then stood under the provisions of the Finance Act, 1994, could not have been borrowed to be made applicable for levy of VAT under the MVAT Act. We hence, wonder as to how the Reviewing Authority could verbatim borrow / copy the contents of the notice issued by the Service Tax Authority.”

12. The argument that the above ground is not raised or that such a ground does not indicate a lack of deliberation or render the impugned order unreasoned is misconceived. In Ground ‘G.1’, the Petitioner has clearly alleged that the impugned order is silent and issued with a complete lack of deliberation. There are grounds asserting that the impugned order is unreasoned and therefore violates natural justice. Additional grounds claim that the order is vitiated due to non-application of mind. Furthermore, it is argued that the impugned order fails to cite or analyse any specific legal provision, judgment, or proposition, which again demonstrates a clear lack of deliberation. Detailed grounds also highlight that several contentions raised in the replies have not been considered. In Ground 'G' concerning non-application of mind, the Petitioner has relied upon the decision in the case of Piramal Enterprises Limited (supra). Under these circumstances, the contention that no grounds were raised in the petition is quite misconceived and cannot be upheld.

13. Besides the grounds, the adjudicating authority is obliged to issue an order after thoroughly considering all relevant arguments and to state the reasons supporting its decision briefly. Any decision made without considering the main contentions or without providing any supporting reasons would be indicative of a lack of application of mind. Simply cutting and pasting the allegations in the show cause notice or mechanically reciting them verbatim does not inspire confidence that due consideration has been shown to the cause, and the decision is made after its due consideration. Ultimately, these are aspects of natural justice principles that should guide the decision-making process in such cases. As is well settled, in these matters, we focus on the process of decision-making rather than the final outcome.

14. We have also examined the replies filed by the Petitioner to the show cause notice. The Petitioner has put forward several contentions, relying on at least nine precedents they claim support their position, as well as the Board Circular dated 20 September 2021. From the impugned order, we observe that although there may be a reference to this Circular and the decisions, these have not been addressed. The impugned order does not specify why such decisions are irrelevant or distinguishable, nor why the cited Circular does not apply. This was expected of the adjudicating authority. The failure to consider the contentions raised or the precedents relied upon, combined with the cut-and-paste approach mentioned earlier, also suggests a lack of proper consideration, which invalidates the impugned order.

15. Section 73(9) of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (CGST Act) which is similar to the corresponding provisions in the Maharashtra Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (MGST) provides that the proper officer shall, after considering the representation, if any, made by person chargeable with tax, determine the amount of tax, interest and a penalty equivalent to ten percent of tax or ten thousand rupees, whichever is higher, due from such person and issue an order. The italicized portion implies and requires that the proper officer must apply his or her mind to the representation made and only after that, issue an order. The phrase ‘consider’ does not mean that the contents of the representation are transcribed in the impugned order and without any discussion on the contentions raised, a conclusion is reached. In this case, the so-called reasoning is merely a cut-and-paste of most of the contents of the show cause notice, as noticed above.

16. The term ‘consider’ has been a subject of several judicial pronouncements. It means examining or weighing the merits of matters. The “Chambers Dictionary” defines this as ‘looking at attentively or carefully’. The “Standard Dictionary” describes this term as thinking with deliberate care or giving heed. In the case of *Union of India & Anr. vs. Tulsiram Patel*¹, the Court clarified that ‘consider’ means to contemplate mentally, fix the mind upon, think over, meditate, reflect, give heed, or take note, implying a deliberate, attentive mental process. In *S. Kiranmayi vs. Sri N. Sambasiva Rao*², the Court held that ‘consider’ involves careful thought, review and weighing of factors.

17. Similarly, Section 75(6) of the CGST Act provides that the proper officer, in his order, shall set out the relevant facts and the basis of his decision. The emphasis of this provision is on the ‘basis of decision’. This means the emphasis is on the reasons that support the decision. Merely cutting and pasting the allegations from the show cause notice does not amount to giving any independent reasons after due consideration the assessee’s contentions or after due application of mind to those contentions.

18. For all the above reasons, we are satisfied that the impugned order warrants interference on the ground urged.

19. The objection regarding the alternative remedy does not hold in this case. Firstly, it is not the case that an appeal has been filed against the impugned order. Secondly, an appeal was made against the order dated 1 April 2022, which included reasons; however, those reasons did not appeal to the Petitioner. Thirdly, since this is a case of complete non-application of mind and violation of principles of natural justice, there is no point in directing the Petitioner to pursue the alternative remedy of appeal. A clear breach of natural justice is an exception to the general rule that statutory remedies should usually be exhausted before seeking this Court’s extraordinary intervention. In any event, we do not intend to annul the impugned order on its substance. Nonetheless, we are intervening because the decision-making process involved a breach of the principles of natural justice and fair play.

2 2017 SCC OnLine Hyd. 164

20. For all the above reasons, we quash and set aside the impugned order dated 24 February 2025 and remand the matter to the adjudicating authority for fresh consideration and disposal of the show cause notice within three months of the uploading of this order. Needless to add that the principles of natural justice will have to be followed, and this would include giving an opportunity of hearing to the Petitioner and considering the Petitioner's replies/representations. All contentions of all parties on merits are, however, left open.

21. The Rule is made absolute in the above terms without any order for costs.

22. All concerned must act on an authenticated copy of this order.
